

Plant Engineer

Glasgow, KY | Full-Time

We are seeking a highly skilled Plant Engineer to play a critical role in optimizing our manufacturing operations. This position blends technical expertise with leadership, focusing on improving equipment reliability, enhancing plant performance, and supporting capital projects. This is an opportunity for a proactive, solutions-oriented engineer who thrives in an industrial environment and wants to make a measurable impact.

Key Responsibilities

- Lead plant engineering and maintenance initiatives to maximize equipment uptime and operational efficiency
- Design, develop, and implement mechanical, electrical, hydraulic, and pneumatic systems and improvements
- Drive preventive and predictive maintenance strategies to reduce downtime and extend asset life
- Collaborate in managing capital projects from concept through execution, including budgeting, vendor selection, and implementation.
- Analyze plant performance and identify opportunities to improve throughput, quality, and cost efficiency
- Oversee wastewater treatment operations and ensure environmental and regulatory compliance
- Collaborate with operations and leadership to improve process flow, layout, and production capabilities
- Maintain accurate engineering documentation, drawings, and technical records (AutoCAD)
- Support and reinforce a strong safety culture in compliance with OSHA and company standards

Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering or related field (preferred) or equivalent experience
- 3+ years of experience in an industrial or manufacturing environment. Minimum two (2) years related experience with supervisory responsibilities.
- Strong technical knowledge of electrical systems (motor controls, PLCs), hydraulics, and pneumatics
- Experience with CMMS systems (MP2 or similar) and AutoCAD
- Familiarity with environmental regulations and wastewater treatment systems
